

Your Dog's Dental Starter Plan

What really keeps teeth healthy (since kibble does not).

Why Kibble Is Not Enough

Most kibble shatters when bitten instead of scraping, and it is high in carbohydrates that feed the bacteria behind plaque. Dry food is fine to feed, it is just not a dental cleaner.

The 5 Things That Actually Work

Step	What to Do
1. Clean the gum line daily	Brush, or rub coconut oil / a gel along the gums
2. Let them chew (safely)	VOHC-approved dental chews or safe crunchy foods
3. Add a plaque-fighter	A daily seaweed supplement on food
4. Watch the mouth	Lift the lips monthly, check for red gums or tartar
5. Vet cleanings	A professional scale and polish when advised

A Simple Way to Start

- Week 1: let your dog lick a little coconut oil off your finger
- Week 2: start gently rubbing it along the gum line
- Add a safe daily chew and a plaque-fighting supplement
- Build to a daily 30-second routine, consistency beats intensity

REMEMBER: Even great home care slows disease, it does not erase it. Hardened tartar can only be removed by a vet cleaning, and a healthy mouth protects the heart and kidneys too.
