

Aloe Vera

How to calm hot, red, inflamed skin safely.

How to Apply

Apply a thin layer of pure inner-leaf aloe gel directly onto the red, inflamed area. Use up to twice a day on the worst spots like the groin, between the paws, or the base of the ears. Let it dry for a few minutes so it can absorb before your dog moves around.

The Safe Way vs the Toxic Part

SAFE TO USE

PURE INNER GEL ONLY

- Clear, latex-free aloe gel
- Labeled fragrance-free and alcohol-free
- Pet-safe or food-grade products
- Apply thin layer, let it dry

TOXIC, AVOID

THE YELLOW LATEX (ALLOIN)

- The yellow sap under the leaf skin
- Toxic if your dog licks or eats it
- Causes vomiting and diarrhea
- Never use raw whole leaf on dogs

Stop Your Dog From Licking It Off

- Apply, then distract with a walk or a toy for 10 minutes
- Use a cone (recovery collar) on hard to reach spots if needed
- Apply before a nap so it absorbs while they rest

NEVER FOR CATS: Aloe can cause vomiting and diarrhea in cats, skip it entirely for them. For dogs, never apply to deep or open wounds, and contact your vet if your dog eats any aloe plant or gel.
